

The Chautauquan Daily

Chautauqua, New York

"In a media world virtually atomized by electronic devices, a world taken over by commentators and gossips of every stripe, the Daily gives you well-grounded, comprehensive coverage of ideas you care about at considerable length."

—C. Fraser Smith

"Extra! Extra! Back to the future of newspapers"
The Baltimore Sun

The Chautauquan Daily is looking for excellent news and feature writers, photographers, page designers and copy editors for the 2012 season. As the official newspaper of the Chautauqua Institution, the Daily keeps Chautauquans informed of prominent speakers, performing and visual arts presentations, religion and recreation activities throughout the summer.

Internships with The Chautauquan Daily are highly competitive and have attracted candidates from the best journalism, photojournalism and visual communications programs in the United States. Daily alumni have landed positions with prominent newspapers and news media organizations, book publishers, colleges and universities, and arts and civic organizations, or continued on to other prestigious internships, fellowships and graduate programs.

Chautauqua Institution, located in the southwest corner of New York state, is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to lifelong learning. Chautauqua's programs aim to renew the spirit, stimulate the mind, value the arts and promote physical well-being. The famed lecture platform hosts well-known daily speakers discussing a broad range of major contemporary issues. During the evenings, guests enjoy the symphony, ballet, opera, theater, visual arts and popular entertainers.

Internships at the Daily run from June 12 to August 24, 2012. Interns receive a stipend and usually live on or near the Chautauqua Institution grounds.

REPORTERS The Chautauquan Daily is a unique opportunity for good writers to cover the arts, prominent speakers and nationally known theologians. This is an ideal position for building a portfolio of clippings for future media-related careers.

PHOTOGRAPHERS Interns are challenged with a variety of assignments, including morning and afternoon lectures, evening performances, operas and plays, recreation and feature photo essays.

DESIGN EDITORS Interns design and lay out pages in InDesign from stories, photos, headlines, graphics, etc., with opportunities to be creative on the front page and section openers.

COPY EDITORS Interns read and edit copy for accuracy and clarity, grammar, spelling and AP style, and will flow copy from Microsoft Word into InDesign. Our readers are loyal, critical and astute; the content of our pages matters to them.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Those who think they might like to work at The Chautauquan Daily during the 2012 season should contact Matt Ewalt, Daily editor, PO Box 28, Chautauqua Institution, Chautauqua, NY, 14722, or at mewalt@ciweb.org. Applications will be accepted through March 1.

For more on Chautauqua Institution, visit www.ciweb.org, or the Daily's website at www.chqdaily.com.

